Warmer sunrise

Like a movie scene or a postcard from Siberia, the sun was reflected off the snow as it rose Friday morning on the Dick Monsees property along Route TT east of Sedalia. However, the cold whiteness took on a somewhat different effect as the temperature rose and the snow became a mucky slush around town.

U.S. draft evaders given full pardons

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his first executive order, President Carter today fulfilled his campaign promise and granted a full, complete and unconditional pardon to all Vietnam draft evaders who were not involved in any violent act.

Deserters from the military forces were not included, but Carter ordered an immediate study of their cases and also of the possible upgrading of bad conduct or undesirable discharges.

Press Secretary Jody Powell said there are "no good estimates of the number (of persons) that might be affected" by the pardon but that it is probably "well up to the hundreds of thousands, including people who failed to register for the draft." There are an unknown number of persons whose failure to register has never come to official attention.

Draft evaders who are now overseas may return home under Carter's action, Powell said.

Those who have become citizens of another country can come home to visit families "without fear of prosecution," but if they wish to regain American citizenship they will have to apply under the same terms and conditions as any other alien, he said.

Outbreak of flu confirmed

ATLANTA (AP) — An outbreak of flu — the first in the nation this winter — was reported at Nashville, Tenn., today by the national Center for Disease Control.

The outbreak of Influenza B, similar to the B-Hong Kong flu of several years ago, was reported among students at Vanderbilt University.

Dr. Richard O'Brien, a medical epidemiologist at the CDC, said Vanderbilt authorities reported that physicians in the university's health center were seeing about 60 or 70 patients a day with an influenza-like illness.

There have been scattered reports of Influenza B in Pennsylvania and Tennessee, but the Vanderbilt illnesses are the first outbreak to be reported, O'Brien said.

An occurrence of flu is considered to be an outbreak when there is a marked increase in the number of patients in a given population.

Influenza B usually attacks children and young adults. Its mortality rate is much lower than Influenza A. The difference between the two types can be determined only in a laboratory.

If you have either one, you feel just as bad with headaches, body ache and rising temperature, doctors said.

Swine flu is a type-A influenza. There have been only five isolates — laboratory confirmations — of A-Victoria flu virus in the nation this winter, O'Brien said.

In his acceptance speech, Curtis said the Democrats must not rest on the laurels of victory.

He promised a major party reorganization, massive voter registration, continued efforts to open party ranks and a new program "to sense the moods and needs of our diverse population."

Most White House incumbents tend to diminish the national committee in favor of their own staffs, but Carter has big plans to work through Curtis to convert the party machinery into an organization largely dedicated to helping Carter keep his promise to be responsive to the wishes of the people.

Carter aides say he views the national party as an important part of his administration and hopes to make good use of it instead of treating it as a rival as have other presidents.

President Lyndon Johnson virtually dismantled the Democratic National Committee when he was in the White House. And Richard Nixon used his 1972 re-election committee to virtually replace the Republican National Committee.

Curtis said in an interview that he plans an ambitious building program and will put the party apparatus to work gathering issues data and campaign information that will be available to Democratic candidates. In addition, he plans to computerize polling data to give Carter and party candidates up-to-the-minute information on how the voters feel about any given issue.

Welcome, friends

White House doors opened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The keys finally his, Jimmy Carter opened the White House today to the once-fellow outsiders who helped put him there, a triumph celebrated in hopes that their "joy and friendship and caring for each other" would sustain the Republic for the next four years.

After a rigorous inaugural day highlighted by a remarkable walk in the first light of his presidency — and the traditional waltzes on the first night of it — the 39th chief executive settled back and welcomed his friends and top appointees to his new home.

More than 1,000 persons who had opened their homes to the Carter family during the campaign were greeted by the President and his wife, Rosalynn, one by one at the White House front lobby. Carter and the First Lady greeted them with a combination of laughter, tears, hugs, kisses and handshakes.

The guests at later receptions during the day included governors, Cabinet members, the Democratic National Committee, state campaign managers, party finance committee members, those in labor, business and entertainment who helped the Carter cause and Robert Fulbright, who published Carter's campaign biography: "Why Not the Best."

"These are all my cousins," Carter said jokingly at one point.

Before the guests met the President, they were treated to refreshments and music in the East Room. Then, they toured the Green, Blue and Red rooms and went in to meet their host.

Vice President Walter Mondale and his wife greeted guests at the entrance to the huge State Dining Room, one of two rooms lined with long buffet tables serving orange and tomato juice and sweet rolls and cake.

Each family that shared their home with the Carters received a bronze plaque engraved in black saying: "A member of the Jimmy Carter family stayed in this house during the 1976 presidential campaign."

Thursday night, Carter and his wife Rosalynn climaxed the inaugural day with a rapid-fire tour of seven parties spread throughout the city at four hotels, the railroad station, a government building and an armory. Each was jammed with thousands of persons, all of whom paid $25 to get in, a bargain price as inaugural balls go.

Accompanied by daughter Amy, 9, at the first two nighttime events, the President and Mrs. Carter took several whirls around the dance floor, and he kissed her on the cheek once or twice.

At each event, Carter made a brief, campaign-style talk, asking over and over, "Wasn't this a good day?"

"Yes!" came the inevitable roar. "Isn't this a great country?"

Again, cheers.

"Can it be greater in the future — and will you help me?"

And with the next outburst, Carter, in tuxedo, went on to tell the partygoers that six years ago Rosalynn had worn the same floor-length blue and gold gown, when he was elected governor of Georgia. "Don't you like my wife's old dress?" he'd ask.

"Today is the greatest day in the life of the Carter family," he said. "I see here so many of you who helped me when I didn't have any friends ... I want this evening of joy and friendship and caring for each other to last for the next four years."

In all, the round of partygoing lasted 3½ hours, and the Carters were home for their first night in the White House at 12:30 a.m., about 1½ hours earlier than planned, though other celebrants continued way into the morning.

The Carters had good reason to be tired. Earlier in the day, as millions watched via television, he had given the nation a sight never before seen, a new President strolling all the way down Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol to the White House, his wife holding his

Prosecutor blasts press in Sedalia

Prosecuting Attorney Mark Kempton blamed Sedalia's press Thursday for what he said is lack of confidence in law enforcement agencies and poor cooperation between those agencies.

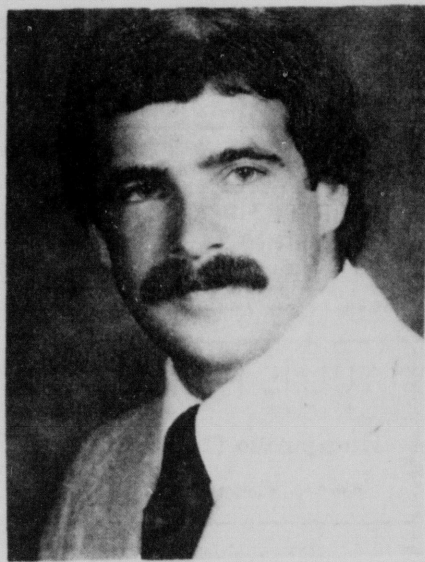

Speaking before the Kiwanis Club at the Bothwell Hotel, Kempton said the press is guilty of "petty muckraking" and has caused local citizens "to have a bad taste in their mouth" about law enforcement.

Kempton cited recent stories about an automobile accident in the county involving the police department's drug agent, and Mayor Allen Hawkins' order to the police chief and other officers to wear uniforms as examples of stories that were overplayed.

He also claimed that business discontent over his newly-adopted policy on prosecution of bad check offenders is due to a "misunderstanding" by the press.

Referring to what he considers lack of public support for law enforcement, Kempton said: "I think it's their (the news media's) fault, I'll put it right there."

Commenting on his new policy on bad checks, Kempton defended his tightening of the rules in regard to which cases he will prosecute. "We decided this was the only way we could effectively handle this problem and reduce it," he said.

The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a breakfast at 7:30 a.m. Thursday at the Ramade Inn, at which time Kempton or his assistant William Turley will defend the new policy on checks.

Various park uses aired at meeting

By OWEN HARDY
Staff Writer

Soccer fields, softball fields, jogging tracks, and, closer to home right now, ice-skating rinks, were the main topics of conversation between about 40 persons and Parks and Recreation Director Roscoe Righter Thursday night at Convention Hall.

They came together to discuss ideas for developing the 17.5-acre park at the corner of Grand, Clinton and 24th Streets.

Although the park will be open this summer for such activities as picnicking, hiking and bird-watching, there are no facilities such as rest rooms, lighting or shelters, Righter said. Normal park maintenance such as lawn-mowing and tree-trimming will be maintained this summer, however.

Most of the persons present Thursday night had specific reasons for being there. One woman wanted a jogging trail around the perimeter of the park. A soccer enthusiast requested that a soccer field or at least a practice field be constructed, noting that there will be 40 teams this season needing a place to practice. Another woman said a large playground should be built on the site because of the many children in the area.

One man asked Righter why there were no winter sports available and suggested that the fire department be called in to spray the Liberty Park lagoon so a smoother surface could be obtained. Righter said he would check into it.

Whatever the park is used for, one of the main problems will be money. Righter estimated that a fully-developed facility would cost between $150,000 and $200,000. So far, one civic club, the Rotary Club, has promised $10,000 to be used to construct park shelters. And, Righter pointed out, the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation will match every dollar raised locally.

Massive ice shifts next major problem

By G.A. FITZGERALD
Associated Press Writer

Warmer temperatures posed the spectre of massive runaway ice floes on the ice-jammed Mississippi River today, but they came too late to save damaged Southern crops and did little to remedy a natural gas shortage in the East.

Schools and factories in a number of states remained closed for another day due to shortages of energy and materials.

Temperatures in St. Louis rose to just under freezing Thursday, the highest since Dec. 28, and a Coast Guard spokesman warned that any quick thaw could cause havoc on the river.

The Mississippi currently is blocked by a huge ice gorge, now 58 miles long, above Cairo, Ill.

"If that should let go suddenly," said the Coast Guard spokesman in St. Louis, "it would take everything with it. The barges stranded along the banks and out in the ice would take a beating."

The slightly warmer temperatures forecast for Florida came too late to save much of the citrus and vegetable crop. Also at stake are the jobs of 33,000 harvesters and packinghouse workers, officials said.

The multimillion-dollar citrus industry caused the most worry. The Florida Citrus Mutual, representing 1,600 growers, said up to 35 per cent of the crop was affected by the freeze in the 300-mile-long, 150-mile wide citrus-growing belt.

The freeze also damaged sugar cane, cabbage and carrot crops and demolished up to 45,000 acres of tomatoes, cucumbers, squash, peppers, and watermelon, industry officials said. Tomato losses alone were $43 million, they said.

Gas shortages forced officials to tell pupils in 80 per cent of Georgia's 188 school districts to stay home until Monday.

Primacy of Pope agreed in future

LONDON (AP) — Anglican and Roman Catholic representatives have agreed that in any future union between the two churches, some type of primacy should be held by the Pope of Rome.

However, the participants agreed that Anglicans, including Episcopalians in the United States, have not been able to accept some Roman Catholic concepts of the extent of papal authority, such as infallibility in defining faith and morals. Official action on the document was considered years away.

Must moonlight

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) —
Of about 7,000 ministers in the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), 13 per cent have other professions to help earn their livelihoods, the church's 1977 Year Book says.

No stereotyping

NEW YORK (AP) — A
Polish Methodist leader, the Rev. Adam Kuczmarski, citing signs of improved attitudes in the United States toward churchmen in Communist-ruled Eastern Europe, says that on a previous U.S. visit he noted headlines such as "Red Clergy Visit," but had observed no such stereotyping on his present trip.

Contributions up

ATLANTA (AP) — Contributions to the general missions budget of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. (Southern) increased 9.8
per cent last year to a total of $7.1 million, the church reports.

Guidelines inspected final time

WASHINGTON (AP) —
Another revision of a proposed major, new guide to Roman Catholic education in this country has been distributed to dioceses across the nation for final reactions and suggestions.

It is the third such church-wide review since the U.S.
Catholic bishops in 1972 commissioned production of the National Catholic Directory to provide comprehensive guidelines for Church education at all levels.

When the current reactions are consolidated, after a March 15 deadline, a final draft will be prepared for submission to the fall meeting of U.S. bishops for their action on the document.

Jewish faith down 86,000

NEW YORK (AP) — The world's Jewish population now is estimated at 14,145,000, says the 1977 edition of the American Jewish Year Book.
The figure represents a year's drop of 86,000.

The volume, issued jointly by the American Jewish Committee and the Jewish Publication Society of America, puts the number of U.S. Jews at 5,845,000, more than in any other nation.

Celebration Road Show reaches journey's end

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Celebration Road Show is at the end of the road after covering 800,000 miles in five years of travel and musical ministry in churches, schools and night clubs.

"I'm tired of traveling," said the Rev. Gary Miller, trumpeter and director of the Dixieland band that gave thousands of performances throughout the United States.

Night club appearances "paid the freight" for the unique ministry, said Miller. He tried to accept invitations from all churches, no matter how small, and sometimes performed "for as little as a free lunch."

The band avoided "blue" material even in night clubs, and while in church combined the music with a little preaching, Miller, ordained by the United Church of Christ, is a former parish minister at Saginaw, Mich.

He said it's his feeling he never left the clergy but found a way to extend his ministry through music. Playing in nightclubs, he said, was not incongruous.

"We never extended altar call invitations, but we always made it clear through the music we played how we feel about human rights and human relations — where we're going as a nation — the things that build more lasting and important human relationships," Miller said.

"When we have night club audiences holding hands and singing 'Just a Closer Walk with Thee' at 1:30 a.m., we know we are helping people."

A recent performance in suburban Minneapolis was the last of 580 concerts in churches of many denominations. Another 500 performances were given in schools and colleges. After the first of the year, the performers went their separate ways.

Miller, a former pro football player with the Michigan Apollos of the old Continental League and once a member of the Saginaw City Council, began his musical experiment at worship services in 1971.

The following year he organized the road show under the sponsorship — without financial support — of the UCC Board for Homeland Ministries.

At the church's General Synod meeting in St. Louis in 1973, the band had the delegates dancing in the aisles.

The band has an ecumenical makeup. Like Miller, Jim Beebe is a UCC member. Vocalist-pianist Laurie Seaman, 22, the youngest of the band, is a Catholic. Charles Hooks is an Episcopalian, Terry Grosskopf a Lutheran and Ron Barron a Methodist.

It was a happy time, the performers recalled, but the traveling was too rigorous. They remembered an "overnight" trip from Minneapolis to Mercersburg, Pa. And, as the tour came to an end, they played a night club in La Crosse, Wis., got less than three hours' sleep and drove to Robbinsdale, a Minneapolis suburb, for a 10 a.m. church service.

"It's hard, but it's a way of life," said Barron, the show's drummer and a veteran of 36 years as a professional musician. The 48-year-old Barron started his career playing in road houses when he was 12. He worked 14 years in Las Vegas, backing such acts as Vicki Carr and June Christy. He was married and divorced twice, and said his deepest regret was not seeing his daughters grow up. He'll miss his 8-year-old son's growing up, too.

"It's a great void in my life, but it's the dues you pay to be a professional musician." He said he plans to stage music clinics in schools and recruit students for Lakeland College in Wisconsin.

"I want to transfer my love of music to kids," he said. "I want to go into schools and explain the life of a professional musician, and express the joy a person gets in playing an instrument."

He said he never realized what kind of people could be found in churches.

"I've met a wonderful bunch of beautiful people in the churches where we played," he said. "Wherever we've gone, we've seen smiles."

Miller said that's what the show was all about, the reason for those 800,000 miles of travel. It was the band's goal, he said, to inspire people of all ages with God's message of love and understanding, and to make them happier.

He's looking forward to spending time with his family and a move to Florida to promote the Gospel through film and other media.

"We've tried to give happiness and joy, to sing and laugh and share a good evening together," said Miller. "Through music, we've tried to find the key to unlock what keeps people separated, to bring them together through laughter and song. I'm sure that's the same thing that pastors of churches try to do."

Covenant ends inaugural oath

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The trappings of a presidential inauguration symbolize qualities of the United States that led the late U.S. Senate chaplain Peter Marshall to call it a "covenant" nation.

That term, "covenant," in its original Biblical sense, means a compact between God and people in which God promises guidance in justice and right while the people, in turn, are obligated to pursue those ideals in community life.

"So help me God," the presidents down through the years have implored at the conclusion of their oath of office to uphold the nation's purposes. The phrase implies that sense of duty to a higher superintendence.

As the centerpiece of that national ritual, threaded with prayer, rededication and lofty aspirations, presidents traditionally have used the great, oldest book of God's dealing with humanity — the Bible.

In recent times, they've added a personal touch to the occasion by providing cherished, old family Bibles for their swearing-in.

For President Jimmy Carter Thursday, the book was an aged, but well-preserved family Bible that had been handed down through his mother's line of ancestors for 150 years.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale took the oath on a pulpit Bible that his father, a Methodist minister, had used in congregational worship in Minnesota. Mondale himself now is a Presbyterian.

Until the late 19th century, it was the task of the clerk of the U.S. Supreme Court to provide the Bibles for the inauguration ceremonies. But Grover Cleveland, in 1885, broke that tradition by bringing along a Bible given to him by his mother.

Use of family Bibles has been common since then, but not uniform. Franklin D. Roosevelt used a Dutch family Bible in 1933. Harry S. Truman in 1949 used two Bibles — both of them long-time family possessions.

Varying from that 20th-century custom, however, Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1953 used the same Bible, nearly two centuries old, that the first president had used when he took the oath of office in 1789.

In Washington's case, after taking the oath, he bent over and kissed the book.

On the flyleaf of the Bible on which Thomas Jefferson took the oath in 1801, he recorded in small handwriting a page-long list of his favorite Scripture texts.

Generally, the Bibles used have been the King James translation of 1611, the main Protestant version until recent times. The first inaugural use of the long-prevalent Catholic translation, the Douay version of 1582, was by John F. Kennedy in 1961.

Lyndon B. Johnson, who succeeded the assassinated Kennedy, had his wife, Lady Bird, hold the Bible at his oath-taking ceremony.

Music head

Lee Martin, director of "The New Dawn Trio," a gospel recording group, has been appointed minister of music at Emmet Avenue Baptist Church. A graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, he holds a music degree from Drake University, according to Pastor Al Greathouse. A gospel sing on the last Saturday night of each month, beginning Jan. 29, is planned at the church.

Ministers elect officers for 1977

SWEET SPRINGS — The Sweet Springs Ministerial Alliance recently elected new officers for 1977. The Rev. George Farr was elected president; the Rev. Paul Burton, vice president; the Rev. Charles Litton, secretary-treasurer; and the Rev. Burton was also elected public relations chairman.

The next meeting of the Alliance will be held at 8:15 a.m. Tuesday at the First Christian Church here. Plans for the annual Easter Sunrise Service will be completed then.

Frozen bodies are found in St. Louis area

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The bodies of three St. Louisans who apparently froze to death have been found during the last two days, authorities said.

On Thursday, the body of a Ford Clarke, 63, was found in a snow-filled ditch behind his home.

Police said Clark had been reported missing Monday by relatives and that there were no marks of violence on his body.

Earlier Thursday, the body of a 30-year-old woman, Joann Stewart, was found lying in an outdoor stairwell, authorities said.

The woman had left her home earlier saying that she wanted to kill herself, police said. But there were no signs of violence or drug overdose in connection with the death, they said.

Charles Horvath, 34, who had been missing for about a week, was found dead Wednesday in his car.

His frozen body was spotted by a passerby who notified authorities.

Smoke inhalation fatal for woman

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An 86-year-old St. Louis woman died of smoke inhalation Thursday night when an electric heater apparently touched off a fire in her second-story flat, authorities said.

The victim was identified by police as Mary Howard.

Fire officials said that the heater apparently came in contact with a couch.

A family living on the first floor was not injured, authorities said.

Upset the guardians them for the last few blocks. Behind them, 15-month-old Jason is carried on the shoulders of his father, Jack Carter. (UPI)

Christian unity progress surfacing

NEW YORK (AP) — Another major step came this week in the slow, but unremitting, march toward Christian unity. Despite difficulties, bouts of apathy and internal denominational conflicts, progress continued toward the goal.

It was set by Jesus in his prayer, as recorded in John 17:21, that "they all be one ... so that the world may believe."

As Protestants, Roman Catholics and Eastern Orthodox believers joined Jan. 18-25 in observing the annual "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity," new signs showed up that they're making headway in the cause.

The latest indication of it was in the newly announced agreement between Anglican and Roman Catholic representatives that the unification of the two churches should recognize the pope as the prime overseer.

But they cited lingering differences over the extent of his authority, particularly Anglican rejection of the Catholic concept of papal infallibility in defining faith and morals. But the Catholic participants noted Catholicism itself is tempering its view of papal authority to a more pastoral role.

The new accord "represents a significant convergence with far-reaching consequences," the joint report said, adding that adjustments are continuing that offer hope for removing remaining difficulties.

The conclusions by the international joint commission came in the wake of a series of agreements on other aspects of unity, including the ministry and the Eucharist, or Holy Communion.

Similar accords also have been reached in parallel bilateral talks between Catholics and Lutherans, Eastern Orthodox and, to a more limited extent, with Presbyterians and Methodists.

Indeed, a Catholic-Lutheran team in the United States recently recommended sharing Communion. Participants also concluded that Lutheran-Catholic agreement is possible on papal primacy, but with the pope's role limited to a pastoral, unifying role in regard to Lutherans.

In a kindred way, Eastern Orthodox leaders have said they could acknowledge the pope as a presiding spiritual leader, but without the juridical powers vested in him by Catholicism.

But measures to put the accords into action have yet to be taken.

Meanwhile, on the local level across the country, hundreds of "covenant" relationships have been declared between Catholic and Episcopal and Lutheran parishes, pledging them to prayer for each other and shared facilities and religious education programs.

However, Catholic authorities — including the Vatican — consistently have turned down requests from such covenant parishes for permission to share occasional celebrations of Holy Communion. It sometimes happens anyhow, in a quiet, unpublicized way.

Among U.S. Protestants, representatives of 10 major denominations approved a "common theological basis" for union at last fall's meeting in Dayton, Ohio, of the Consultation on Church Union.

It was relayed to participating denominations for their reactions.

Energy problems get close review in state

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Officials of Missouri's 41 rural electric cooperatives are reviewing the generating problems of the past week to develop procedures to avoid the threat of brownouts in the future as temperatures continue to warm across the state.

Meanwhile, state energy officials said the problems arising from the arctic-like cold of the past two weeks appear to "have eased off quite a bit, at least based on the phone calls we've been getting."

Wes Fisher of the Missouri Energy Agency said the major demand now is for kerosene to mix with regular fuel oil to keep the oil from thickening in the extreme cold. Fisher said there is not a large quantity of kerosene available in the state.

Liquid propane gas distributors, while having plenty of fuel available, are still having some problems in supplying it to users fast enough because "demand is so high," Fisher said. "That situation still remains tight."

"We continue to watch it and urge people to follow conservation methods," he said.

The Missouri Electric Cooperatives Association lifted its emergency peak energy alert on Thursday after taking temporary measures to improve generating capacities at the cooperatives' two major generating plants in New Madrid and Moberly.

Customers had been asked on Monday to turn thermostats back to 65 degrees and use only essential appliances after problems brought on by the severe cold forced reductions of up to 25 per cent in the generating capacities of both plants.

"Our members reacted quickly and unselfishly, dropping our load dramatically," said Gerald F. Diddle. "Because of their immediate response we were able to avert a very serious supply condition."

Diddle said the situation should improve further with the return of seasonally normal temperatures predicted for this weekend.

Release of man is investigated

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Missouri Parole Board is investigating the release of a man who was being held on $100,000 bond on second-degree murder charges by a Jackson County judge.

Magistrate Leonard Hughes said he ordered the release of John Henry Moss, 20, on his own recognizance partly because he knew Moss's stepfather as "a fine and responsible person," according to a copyright article in the Kansas City Star. Hughes acknowledged he was a friend of the stepfather.

Moss and his 16-year-old wife were arrested in the slaying of David Thomas Christmas Eve. Thomas's nude body was found in a central city park with gunshot wounds in his head and back. Moss was charged with second-degree murder and his wife turned over to juvenile authorities.

Moss's mother, Mrs. Katherine Griffin, told the newspaper that she went to see Judge Hughes to ask for her son's release. She said Hughes went upstairs in the Jackson County courthouse. When he came back, he told her Moss would be out of jail in an hour. Mrs. Griffin said Hughes had been a friend of her late husband, Fred Griffin, for many years.

Hughes admitted he knew Griffin well and that Mrs. Griffin had come to see him.

He said he ordered Moss' release "relying on knowing his (Moss') father and knowing what a fine and responsible person he was. I took that into consideration. He would try to instill in all the children a fine and law-abiding spirit."

An investigator for the state parole board said they recommend against release on recognizance in murder cases.

The investigator said the release was also unusual because of Moss' record. He was charged with vehicular homicide as a juvenile when his car slammed into another car and killed the driver while he was trying to escape police. Moss was placed on juvenile probation.

He was also on city probation until last November after a 1975 conviction for carrying a concealed weapon.

Judge Hughes also said he usually orders bond in cases of violent crimes, depending on the evidence. But he said the minimal amount of evidence in Moss' case prompted him to order the release, so that Hughes could get out and prove his innocence.

Police say they found what they consider one of the two guns used in the murder in Moss' Kansas City apartment. They also found a jumpsuit belonging to the victim in the apartment. Police recovered the other gun from a man who said Moss' wife had given it to him.

Hughes said he did not know about the jumpsuit and he thought there were several reasons why the murder weapon could have been in Moss' apartment. He said he examined the evidence quickly and would have set the bond had he known about the clothing.

Moss was rearrested Monday after he was indicted by the Jackson County grand jury in the Thomas murder. Bond was set at $75,000.

Although there are about $7 million in federal matching funds available for this year, Righter expects applications to total at least $14 million. However, he says Sedalia's chances of receiving federal aid are better than last year when only $3,300,000 was available for an estimated $11 million in grant applications.

Righter also points out that, as far as the federal money goes, "We qualify in every area that they can judge us on."

The city has 111 acres of its land devoted to parks, while, according to national standards, Sedalia should have 228 acres of public land, he says.

The same is true of recreational facilities, Righter says. About seven or eight new tennis courts should be constructed to add to the city's current seven courts in order to meet national requirements, for example.

Righter says another meeting will be held in February to get more citizen input, with a final meeting scheduled for early March when cost figures and a final park design will be presented.

Charge dismissed due to 'oversight' 13 years ago

SMITHTON — A charge of violating this city's zoning ordinances was dismissed Thursday in Pettis County Circuit Court because of an apparent oversight made by the city clerk almost 13 years ago.

Dennis and Virginia Dirck, Smithton, were charged last Sept. 4 in Smithton Municipal Court with operating their welding service in violation of the city's zoning law. When the city lost its case here, it appealed the action to the Circuit Court in Sedalia on Nov. 16.

The case was dismissed Thursday at cost to the city because no one recorded the number of "aye" and "nay" votes when the city council here originally passed the zoning law on May 5, 1964.

In his talk Thursday, Kempton outlined the duties of the prosecuting attorney's office. "I'm the one who decides who's prosecuted and who's not," said Kempton, pointing out that prosecution of marginal cases wastes "the taxpayers' money."

The Rev. Marvin Albright introduced the speaker.

Guests were Dr. William Cole, with Dr. D.R. Edwards, and Larry Patterson, manager of the Ike Martin Music Co., with Dr. Don Cable.

Sedalia woman hit by car; injuries minor

A 24-year-old Sedalia woman was treated and released at Bothwell Hospital Thursday night for minor injuries she received when she was hit by a car earlier Thursday evening.

Carolyn Ann Glass, 904 South Moniteau, told police she was crossing Kentucky just north of Ninth when she apparently fell and was knocked out. While she was coming to, she was hit by a van driven by David T. Russell, 51, 1414 South Kentucky, who told police he saw the woman lying in the street but could not avoid hitting her.

No summons were issued, police reported.

Taxes, budgets will occupy County Court

Taxes and budgets will be the major topics of discussion in the Pettis County courthouse Monday morning.

The county's 1977 budget will be presented to the County Court for approval at 9 a.m. The court will also outline its spending proposals for federal revenue sharing funds for the coming fiscal year.

The county will receive a total of $195,348 in revenue sharing funds through Sept. 30. A portion of those funds will not be appropriated immediately, the court said Friday morning.

At 10 a.m., the State Tax Commission will hold hearings for those Pettis County land owners still dissatisfied with their property assessments for 1976. The cases to be heard are those appealed to the state following the decisions reached by the annual County Board of Appeals in August. Most of those cases involve local supermarkets, according to Paul White, western district judge.

Goodwin released on cash deposit

Willie Goodwin, 40, Knob Noster, charged with tampering with a motor vehicle, was released Thursday from the county jail on a cash deposit of $250 on his actual $2,500 bond.

Goodwin was allowed to post 10 per cent of his bond following a motion filed in Circuit Court. The 10 per cent bond carries special penalties for failing to appear in court, Circuit Court Clerk Bill Lyles said.

Goodwin and Billy Joe Smith, 18, 813 East Sixth, are charged in connection with the Dec. 14 theft of a 1975 Chrysler owned by Sedalia Cold Storage. The car was taken from the home of George Lockett, 903 South Grand.

Smith remains in the county jail in lieu of $2,500 bond.

McKinley Day dinner is scheduled here

Pettis County Republicans will hold their 79th consecutive McKinley Day dinner next Friday, county GOP Chairman Duane Slagel has announced.

Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps will be the guest speaker. The covered dish dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. at Heber Hunt School.

The McKinley Day event has been held in Sedalia every year since 1898, and commemorates the Flambo Club, a band and drill team that visited Sedalia in 1897 on behalf of the presidential candidacy of William McKinley.

Juvenile is arrested after break-in here

A juvenile-age boy was turned over to juvenile authorities about 11:30 a.m. Friday after police picked him up late Thursday night in connection with a break-in of Cecil's TV, 704 South Ohio.

The burglary at the business was discovered about 11:35 p.m. Thursday by the owner, Gerald Cecil. Police reported that an undetermined amount of money was taken from a cash register and a large amount of damage was done to various articles in the store. Police reports did not say how the business was entered, what items were damaged or where the juvenile was arrested.

In other police news:

— Thieves made off with almost $220 worth of stereo stereo tapes and a tape player from a car belonging to Mark Childs, 1001 South Garfield, he told police. He said he parked his car at 12:30 a.m. Thursday in his driveway, and when he returned at 7 a.m., the left rear window had been broken out and his car tape player and 23 tapes were missing.

— Losses were estimated at more than $185 by tenants of the Commerce Building, Third and Ohio, following a break-in there which occurred between 6 p.m. Wednesday and 6:53 a.m. Thursday, according to police.

Entry was gained through the front door on Ohio street. A number of doors were damaged and a Polaroid "instamatic" camera, a calculator and a quantity of cash were reported taken, according to employees Betty Strode, Route 6, and Theo Christian, 106 East Johnson.

The offices of Dr. Gary Evert, attorney George Miller, and Sammons and Buller Architects were broken into by the thieves, according to police.

hand. Daughter Amy walked several blocks with her parents.

That act, symbolic of his oft-repeated campaign promise to stay close to the people, came as a complete surprise to all but the Secret Service, whom he informed of his plan three weeks earlier.

And despite the icy temperatures, the President obviously enjoyed the mile and one-half stroll. It capped, he said, a "perfect day."

The dramatic walk also served to mute criticism from many who felt that his inaugural address lacked punch, at least in delivery.

It was a short, solemn speech in which the new President declared that "I have no new dream to set forth today, but rather urge a fresh faith in the old dream."

But the line that seemed to draw the greatest appreciation was the one which he opened: "For myself and for our nation, I want to thank my predecessor for all he has done to heal our land."

With that, Gerald R. Ford, a private citizen who planned to be out golfing today in Southern California, bit his lip to stifle the tears while the audience confirmed Carter's tribute with hearty applause.

"I don't deny that I got a little sentimental," the outgoing president told reporters later. "We've had 2½ great years and you can't help but be a little emotional."

Ford was close to tears again when he and his wife, Betty, were honored by a military review at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., prior to their departure in the presidential jetliner for Monterey, Calif., and a golfing vacation.

Police swamped by would-be helpers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Juvenile authorities here said Thursday they have been swamped with offers to help a penniless teenage couple arrested Tuesday for trying to sell their baby.

Gary Slavings and his wife, Ruby, both 19, were arrested after allegedly offering to sell their 6-month-old daughter, Tanya, to undercover agents.

The Slavings told reporters they were broke and wanted to find a better home for their daughter. The couple said they had tried unsuccessfully to give the girl up for adoption.

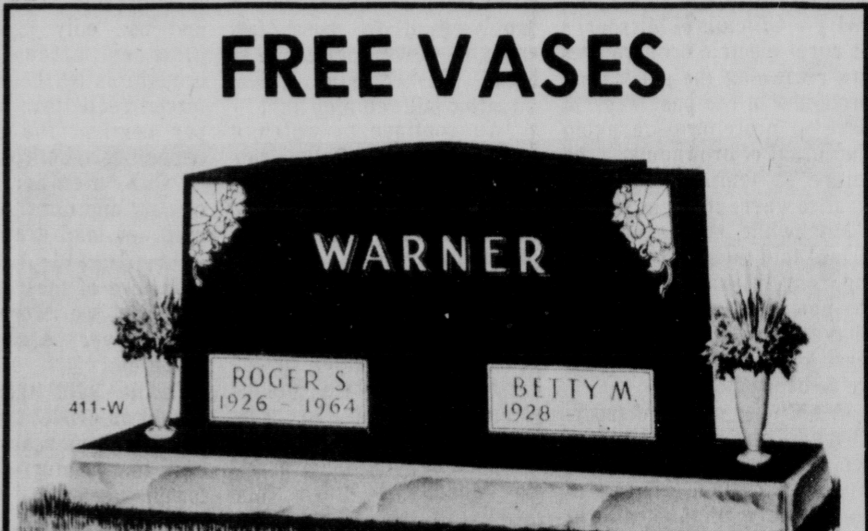

"By the end of Wednesday you'd have thought it was the Lindbergh kidnapping. I got so many calls," said Capt. William Relling, of the police juvenile division.

He said callers offered jobs, money, food and housing for the couple. He says nearly all the calls were favorable.

"People seemed to blame society or the system for their problems instead of the Slavingses," Relling said.

Tanya remains in the custody of juvenile authorities. Her parents were released Thursday on a recognizance bond. Relling said the Slavingses have hired an attorney and plan to petition the juvenile court for Tanya's release.

Gary Gilmore's death may awaken society

WASHINGTON — I hope every member of the U.S. Supreme Court who voted to uphold the death penalty was put in a straitjacket and set before his TV set during the recent Gary Mark Gilmore episode.

Rowan

Even the most stone-aged mind on the court would have soaked up the reality that capital punishment degrades civilized society.

Shooting, hanging, gassing or cooking to death other human beings, however violent or wretched they may be, is too often the tool of egomaniacal dictators; but it can never be the way of men and women of cultivated reason and sensitive morality.

Some say that the execution of this sick man, Gilmore, who was saved from suicide so the state could have the pleasure of killing him, has opened the floodgates — and that more than 350 men and women will soon know the singe of the electric chair, the sweetly stifling death of the gas chamber. I don't believe it.

That morbidly disgusting spectacle surrounding Gilmore's execution is bound to make millions of Americans and a lot of judges think again about the merits of capital punishment as against its destructive effects upon a society.

We do a lot of agonizing about the impact upon our children of all that violence in Clint Eastwood's "Dirty Harry" movies, or "Kojak's" television exploits — or in sweet Angie Dickinson's meanderings as "Police Woman." But none of these could have had such ugly impact on a child's psyche as did the simple TV reportage of what happened to Gary Gilmore.

I know. Some people out there want to believe that this execution will deter crime. But who among us honestly feels one whit more secure because Gilmore is dead, rather than locked up for his actual life?

Gilmore was nuts. His repeated requests to die, his efforts to take his own life, suggest to me a prima facie case of mental aberration. Who else on death row is clamoring to die, or even gently whispering as Gilmore did, "Let's do it?"

There are many thousands of men out there whose minds are just as screwed up as was Gilmore's. Does this well-publicized killing of Gilmore shake into order their jumbled brains and cause them to swear off violent, anti-social behavior?

I have no psychiatric data to prove it, but I fear that these capital punishment sideshows — and every execution is going to be one — may actually trigger new violent outbursts from people who are mentally or emotionally unbalanced.

All but the psychotics among us would find capital punishment utterly offensive if we had to be the executioners. Which is why one rifleman in our firing squads gets a blank bullet — it permits each gunman to imagine that he really didn't do the killing.

We went for a decade without any of these demeaning executions. I predict — and pray — that after we go through another circus in Texas in the case of Jerry Lane Jurek and we endure another case or two of national self-humiliation, we'll drift back to semi-sanity.

We will again conclude that this execution madness drags us toward the bestiality manifested by the perpetrators of our worst crimes, and that the price all society pays is way out of proportion to any benefits of crime deterrence, real or imagined.

A blow to New Bedford

By DOUG KNEIBERT

If I had been astonished at first catching a glimpse of so outlandish an individual as Queequeg circulating among the polite society of a civilized town, that astonishment soon departed upon taking my first daylight stroll through the streets of New Bedford.

That passage, which opens chapter six of Herman Melville's Moby Dick, along with others, permanently enshrined New Bedford on the literary map of the United States.

So it was with a heavy heart that I read this week of the disastrous explosions that destroyed a good portion of New Bedford's historic waterfront. Four early 19th century buildings, including one mentioned in Melville's novel, were leveled by the blasts, which were caused by a leaking gas line.

It's as if Mark Twain's boyhood home and Becky Thatcher's house had burned to the ground. As Twain is to Hannibal, Melville is to New Bedford.

New Bedford is located on the south coast of Massachusetts, on the entrance to Buzzards Bay. Whaling, more precisely, whale oil, was New Bedford's life blood in the early 19th century. When Melville decided to write a book about a whale (and about a lot of other things as well), it was only natural that New Bedford was the place to begin.

I share critic Clifton Fadiman's opinion — and that of other commentators as well — that Moby Dick is America's greatest contribution to world literature. Rest assured it is hard going: Melville didn't write for the Book-of-the-Month Club, but its richness and its numerous other rewards offer the closest thing we have to Shakespearean literature in this country. It's been on my list of books to re-read for some years now, and if I am ever marooned on a desert island, I just might get around to it.

My one and only visit to New Bedford was nearly 20 years ago. I was a cadet at the Naval Officers Candidate School in nearby Newport, R.I. One day a few of us decided to use one of our rare liberties to drive over and pay our respects to Melville's memory.

We visited the Seamen's Bethel (chapel) which is described in Moby Dick and from whose unique pulpit Father Mapple delivered his riveting sermon to the whalers. The cenotaphs described in the book adorn the walls.

From there we went to the Whaling Museum, filled with boats, harpoons, scrimshaw and other items of interest from an age when whaling was a supreme adventure, a contest of near-equals, and not a science. Our efficiency at the job today threatens the very future of the species.

We had dinner at an historic tavern, which may or may not have been the one that went up in smoke with the other buildings Monday.

I always hoped to get back to New Bedford one of these days, and the restoration that had been going on up to now would have made the trip even more worthwhile. Now it looks like I waited too long.

Tithe custom

The tithe (from Old English "teogothian" meaning tenth) was a custom dating back to times of the Old Testament and adopted by the Christian church. Lay people were supposed to contribute one tenth of their annual income to the church. The money, or its equivalent, was used to support the clergy, maintain churches and assist the poor.

Sec. Rumsfeld tells it as it is

As one of its last acts, the Ford administration has told it as it is when it comes to U.S. defense policy.

Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld gave a summary Wednesday of the Pentagon's annual report to Congress. It makes somber reading.

"Our nation simply cannot allow Soviet capabilities to continue expanding and U.S. capabilities to retrench — as they have over the past decade — without inviting an imbalance and, ultimately, a major crisis," said Rumsfeld.

The Soviet Union could become "the dominant military power in the world" unless the U.S. takes steps to prevent that, said Rumsfeld. He itemized these alarming points:

— The Russians now heavily outnumber us in land- and submarine-launched intercontinental ballistic missiles. Their power, accuracy and range is steadily improving.

— For the first time, the Soviets may now be capable of launching a successful "blitz" invasion of Western Europe, due to their great superiority in conventional land and air forces.

— Soviet strategic nuclear capabilities indicate a "war" mentality on the part of the Kremlin instead of the deterrent philosophy dominant in U.S. defense thinking.

Conceding the difficulty of determining Soviet intentions, Rumsfeld made the crucial point that U.S. defense policy should be based instead on Soviet capabilities. This important distinction too often has been obscured by those in government who like to specialize in mind reading.

Rumsfeld's report is clearly designed to put some backbone in the new Carter administration, which is filled with people who are chomping at the bit to take the knife to the defense budget, as has been done too often in the past.

In terms of defense policy and foreign affairs, this country today is at a crossroads. Jimmy Carter has the historic opportunity to see that we take the right direction.

Merry-go-round

Pardon was sought for Gov. Mandel their client. They had been referred to regular channels at the Justice Department.

Under the circumstances, neither Ford nor Buchen felt it would be proper to intervene in the Mandel case. Becker's efforts died on Jan. 20, therefore, with the Ford administration.

Footnote: Mandel is a Democrat. Becker a Republican. In fact, he is deputy counsel of the Republican National Committee. He refused to comment on our story.

FRENCH SELLOUT?: France received far more than the reported aircraft contract in return, it has been alleged, for freeing Abu Daoud, the Palestinian terrorist leader accused of masterminding the 1972 Munich massacre of Israeli Olympics stars.

Daoud is wanted on a number of charges. The French picked him up, but quickly released him last week. As he walked out of prison, French officials closed two military deals with Egypt.

One has been reported in the press; Egypt agreed to purchase 200 Mirage jet fighters from France. But we have learned that Egypt will also allow France to construct a secret, $1.5 billion munitions works.

The munitions center will produce a variety of weapons for Arab countries. According to Israeli intelligence sources, Saudi Arabia will put up the $1.5 billion.

A spokesman for the French embassy confirmed the agreement on the arms plant. But he insisted that the deal had been in the works for months and that the timing of Daoud's release was "a pure coincidence."

Intelligence sources told us, however, that Egyptian officials privately are taking credit for Daoud's release. As the French and Egyptians negotiated the exchange of the alleged mass murderer for the murderous weapons, Israel tried frantically but futilely to extradite Daoud. Israeli sources told us that France refused to discuss Daoud's extradition.

The location of the arms plant is supposed to be a military secret, but we have learned it will be constructed in the Cairo environs. Daoud, meanwhile, has fled to Algeria, the world refuge for terrorists.

REVOLVING DOOR: We have written in the past about the revolving door between business and government. Take the case of James E. Smith, who used to be a lobbyist for the American Bankers Association. The next thing we knew, he was appointed comptroller of the currency in charge of regulating banks.

He dropped out of government a few months ago after making decisions that affect the prosperity of banks. He is forbidden by law from going to work for a bank for two years. Instead, we have found him working for a bank holding company.

Smith is now executive vice president of the First Chicago Corporation, which owns the First National Bank of Chicago. In fact, we reached him by calling the number of the bank.

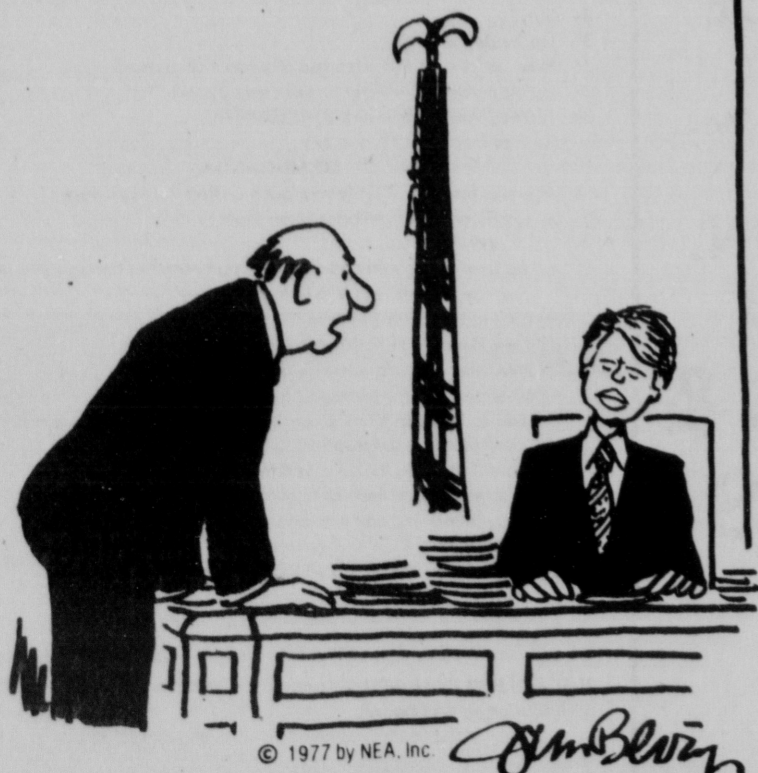

"I am in no way involved in the operations of the bank," Smith explained. Neither the holding company nor the comptroller's office sees any conflict. We do.

CANCER THREAT: The Environmental Protection Agency has discovered potent, cancer-causing chemicals being dumped into a river at the Eli Lilly pesticide plant in Indiana.

The dangerous chemicals, known as nitrosamines, are considered unsafe for human consumption. "All three of the nitrosamines found in your discharges have been shown to be powerful carcinogens (cancer causers)," the EPA wrote Lilly.

Yet, incredibly, the agency is allowing Lilly to keep discharging the chemicals into the river.

"My group is VERY disappointed in the low percentage of people in top positions who are baldheaded!"

WASHINGTON — The presidential confidant who negotiated the pardon of Richard Nixon tried to arrange leniency for another controversial figure during the last days of the Ford administration.

President Ford was asked to spare Maryland's embattled Gov. Marvin Mandel another corruption trial. The first trial was cut short by a jury tampering scandal. Now he is scheduled to return to court in April.

Mandel's friends contend that the governor can no longer get a fair trial anywhere because of the massive, adverse publicity. So attorney Benton Becker, the intermediary in the Nixon pardon, decided to speak to President Ford in Mandel's behalf.

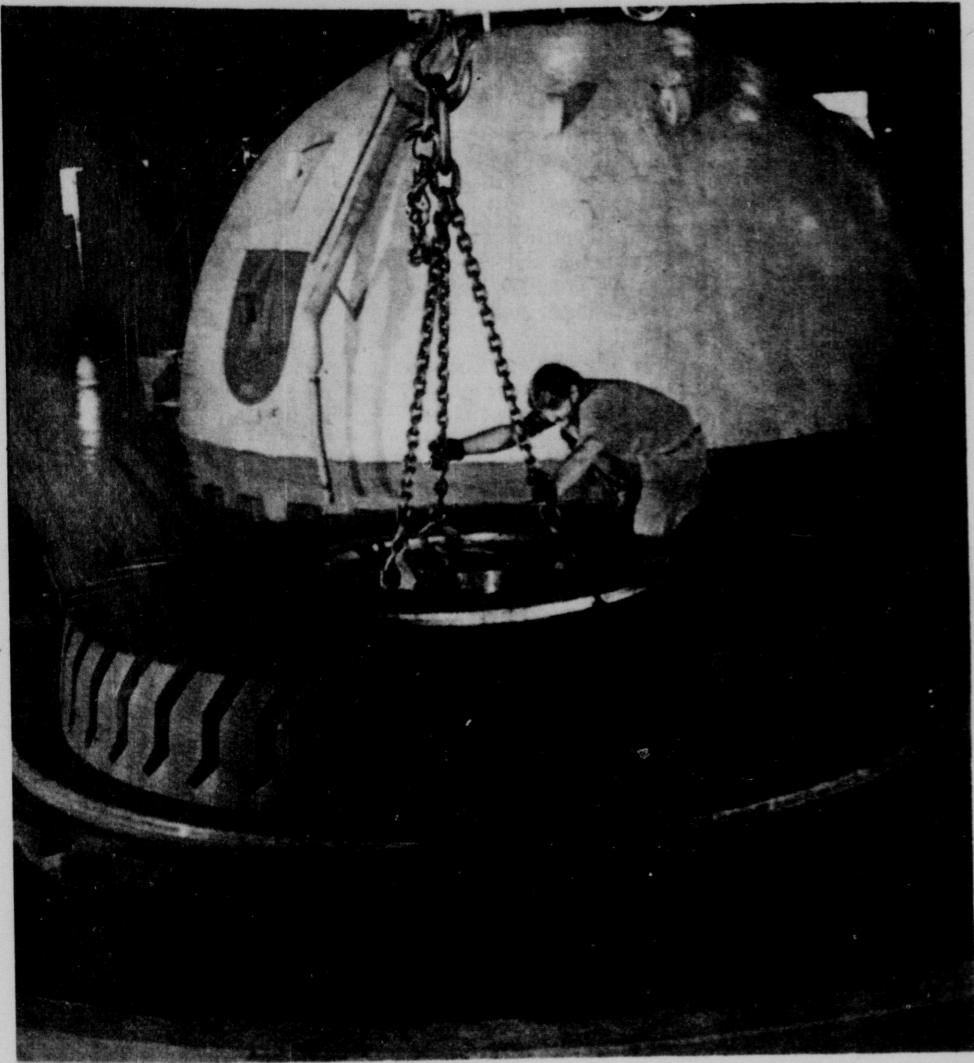

Becker has been a close friend of Gerald Ford for years. Therefore, he asked the former president to consider sparing Mandel another trial.

What Becker sought, although no one at the White House wanted to describe it as such, was an Agnew-style solution. Ex-Vice President Spiro Agnew pleaded no contest to tax evasion and agreed to give up his high office. In return, the Justice Department dropped a host of corruption charges.

Mandel succeeded Agnew as governor of Maryland and, according to the testimony against him, continued many of Agnew's practices. Becker suggested that Mandel be given the opportunity to plead guilty to a minor offense and then step down from office, as Agnew had done.

Becker urged Ford to take up the possibility of plea bargaining with his attorney general, Edward Levi, in order to spare Mandel the ordeal of a second devastating trial.

White House sources confirmed that Becker discussed the Mandel question with both President Ford and his counsel, Phil Buchen. But just a few weeks ago, Agnew's lawyers had sought a last-minute presidential pardon for

The big way

A 12-foot diameter Goodyear earth-mover tire is about to be lifted from the "pot heater," a five-story deep curing press that holds three of the 7,800-pound tires stacked on top of each other beneath the floor of the

Kite flying their purpose

LIDO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The news was unusually weighty and profound this week. Some people, however, in this great disorganized land, gave their attention to lighter matters.

Kites. With airy disregard of the inauguration, the execution, the budget, the weather and all other cares of the moment, a swarm of kite nuts, summoned hither by Will Yolen, the world champion flier of kites, arrived with chins up.

They found a cobalt blue sky above a whitewashed beach beside the calm green water of the Gulf of Mexico and were united in purpose.

Their aim was to decorate that gorgeous sky with kites. Success was rampant.

They flew kites of every shape and color. Kites as big as small airplanes, as small as big butterflies. Kites cumbersome and shapeless, tethered by ropes. Kites as sleek and graceful as the pelicans gliding by in formation applauding the show with leisurely wingbeats. Hundreds of kites in the bright southern sky. A galaxy of kites. An exaltation of kites!

The display persisted until dusk's first chill when lines were untangled and thirst set in.

The thing about kite flying is that it is no big deal. There are no stultifying rules, no bosses or referees. Just let fly, feel the tug, watch it soar.

Thus it was last Sunday despite the official-sounding billing of the event: the Ninth Annual International Kite Flyoff.

Yes, one kite did bear a maple leaf design and a certified Canadian was found attached to it, but, in truth, the flyoff, whatever that is, was "international" purely by declaration. Kite fliers come to play, not to quibble; a little exaggeration is part of the game.

Take Will Yolen, the pied piper of the event. The way one discovers that Will Yolen is the World Champion Kite Flier is by reading the back of his T-shirt, which is documentation enough.

Yolen is one of this nation's freer spirits. He has been hooked on kites more than half his 69 years and this spring will teach a kite-flying course at Yale. Non-accredited, he acknowledged.

Last year, at the Eighth Annual International etc., Will Yolen sent aloft 178 kites on a single line — a word record, according to kiting's unimpeachable source.

"When the line broke it sounded like a cannon," Yolen said. "It was thrilling. Those kites were last seen sailing high over the city of Sarasota, all attached. They have never been found. It was one of the historic moments of kite flying."

Will Yolen conceived the idea of an International Kite Flyoff and held the First Annual one, by himself, in 1969 when he and his wife were wintering here at the Sandcastle Hotel.

"It was Jan. 17, Ben Franklin's birthday, the hotel is on Ben Franklin Drive, there was a nice breeze. It you were a kite flier, what would you do?"

So he flew his kites, this sprightly man who has his world on a string.

Plight of Jews is subject of new film

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It is a very positive film, and I hope it will be well received, particularly by the younger generation. It is important for them to learn what the Nazis did to the Jews."

Vienna-born Oskar Werner was here to talk about the new movie, "Voyage of the Damned," in which he and a clutch of stars portray a little-known episode of Nazi Germany. Nine hundred Jews were allowed to leave Germany on an ocean liner only to be trapped on the high seas when no nation would accept them.

The cast of the Avco Embassy release includes Faye Dunaway, Max Von Sydow, Orson Welles, James Mason, Ben Gazzara, Malcolm McDowell, Lee Grant and Katharine Ross. None could feel the impact of the film's theme as intimately as Oskar Werner.

"I lived under the Nazis in Austria from 1938 to 1945," he remarked. "I saw a very distinguished writer being forced to wash a sidewalk because he was a Jew. I saw the books burning in the street. The big lorries arrived with the books, and I saw what they were — books by Stefan Zweig, Franz Werfel, Freud, Einstein, and Thomas Mann, who wasn't a Jew but had spoken out against the Nazis."

"People in Germany claimed they were not aware of what the Nazis were doing to the Jews. Lies. We all knew about the concentration camps, although we couldn't know all the atrocities that went on. I myself spent four months in a work camp, and it was the most miserable experience of my life. I welcomed being forced into the army, where I was a very poor soldier."

"So you can see that 'Voyage of the Damned' evokes great emotions. Will the young generation be intrigued enough by the theme to come to the theaters? I hope so."

The answer will be known in February, when the film is released nationally. The early opening in New York has produced excellent results, in Los Angeles less so.

This was Werner's first visit to Hollywood since he appeared in a "Columbo" two years ago. His only other film-making experience here was "Ship of Fools" in 1965. He has made surprisingly few movies anywhere — a mere 20 in almost 30 years.

"During my career I have rejected more than 300 scripts," explained the actor, a youthful 54. "I'm an old-fashioned man. I suppose I simply won't appear in pornography or films of violence. I believe in what Kant asked of art: that it be the manifestation of the sublime and the beautiful."

"I have been spoiled by the theater. When I can't find films that seem worth doing, I can always do things that are worthwhile in the theater. I have done four productions of 'Hamlet.' Lately I have been touring with recitals, filling the Vienna theater that is like your Carnegie Hall, with 2,500 people. I read poetry that is familiar to them; my surprise is in how I tell it."

BLENDER HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

Yield: 1 cup
Mrs. John Baker
1201 Spice Street
Sedalia, Missouri

½ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon prepared mustard

Heat butter in saucepan until bubbly, but not browned. Put egg yolks, lemon juice, salt, white pepper and mustard in blender container; cover and run on low speed about 5 seconds. While continuing to run blender, add butter in slow, steady stream until blades are covered; turn to high speed and add remaining butter slowly. Serve immediately on cooked vegetables or fish.

Pisarkiewicz terms high-pressure agents' act unbelievable

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Midnight telephone calls from the same brash guy who cornered you in an elevator that afternoon.

All-knowing experts eager to share their cunning and forecast the owner-player relationship as it will unfold through the rest of this century.

A world full of strangers in friends' clothing.

"They're like buzzards."

says Steve Pisarkiewicz, grateful for a brief respite from the hordes of commission-seeking agents.

"It's unbelievable the way those guys act. It's just unbelievable."

Pisarkiewicz, the likable Missouri quarterback who shattered most of his school's career passing records, is almost certain to go quickly when the National Football League gets around to some type of player allocation this spring.

The cannon that hangs from his right shoulder is capable, most pro scouts feel, of throwing any pass in the National Football League. Plagued during his senior year by nagging injuries and his team's zany 6-5 record, Pisarkiewicz did not get as much national recognition as he probably deserved.

But in the Senior Bowl last month he came off the bench and directed the North squad on two winning touchdown marches. Quarterbacks are the most precious commodity in any NFL lockerroom. And Pisarkiewicz is a walking dollar sign in the eyes of an army of would-be agents.

Everywhere he went, the North-South, Senior and Blue-Gray games, he was surrounded.

"They swarmed the hotel like bees," he said. "I had guys grab me by the arm as I was running onto the practice field. Everybody's your best friend. Everybody knows exactly what's going to happen with the draft."

"I actually had a few guys say they could guarantee that I would start somewhere. The ones that guaranteed anything, I think I may have misplaced their numbers."

A prospect of Pisarkiewicz's mien might expect to draw a three-year contract worth, roughly, in the neighborhood of $100,000 or more. Agents, who perform such services as negotiating contracts and taking care of tax and endorsement matters, usually receive from five to 10 per cent.

"One day I was in an elevator with another player when suddenly a guy jumped in with us and shoved a contract and a pen into his hands."

He literally had him backed against a wall.

"One guy told me he had represented 35 Missouri players. I asked him who they were and he couldn't name them."

"I've gotten contracts in the mail from people I've never met. The contracts are already signed by the agent, the witness and everything. All you'd have to do is sign on the dotted line."

Getting out of hand?

Hartman upset over Big Eight fisticuffs

KANSAS CITY (AP) — If any fists, elbows or chairs go flying around Ahearn Fieldhouse Saturday night you can bet that Jack Hartman will be one mad coach.

Hartman, whose Kansas State squad battles Kansas Saturday for what could be undisputed possession of first place in the Big Eight basketball race, is taking a stand against the trend of overly aggressive style of play that seems to be creeping into college basketball.

"I don't like what I'm seeing," says the veteran coach. "It's a new trend that started maybe two, three or four years ago, a trend that was started by some schools. Kentucky was one of them."

"They got the big, strong, intimidating type of players and told them to go out and be as physical as they could be. They've got enough of them so they have enough depth to withstand foul trouble. And if they can get away with it, then they can control the game."

Kansas State and Kansas, both 3-1 in the conference, are coming off victories. K-State whipped Oklahoma State in Stillwater Wednesday night and the Jayhawks outlasted Iowa State at home Tuesday.

In another crucial game, Missouri, tied for the lead with Kansas and Kansas State, returns home to meet Nebraska, 2-2.

Oklahoma State, 1-3, is at Iowa State, 1-3, and Oklahoma, 2-2, hosts Colorado, 1-3, in a regionally televised afternoon game.

Hartman, one of the most respected coaches in the nation, noted that overly aggressive play is becoming more and more evident in the Big Eight.

Lynn Nance, Iowa State coach, was ejected from his first-round Holiday Tournament game with three technical fouls. Two days later Colorado guard Emmett Lewis was thrown out of the semifinal game for throwing an elbow at Kim Anderson of Missouri.

And on Jan. 15, officials slapped Colorado Coach Bill Blair with two technicals and Buff guard Jay Sierra with two more for swinging at Kansas State's Mike Evans. Two players were thrown out of the game and play was halted for a time when a fight erupted between Kansas and Missouri players at Lawrence two weeks ago.

"I'm beginning to see it a little more in the Big Eight," Hartman said.

"Sierra was just hustling, but then he must have gotten a little frustrated when he found out he couldn't guard Mike without fouling him. I think he just might have lost control momentarily."

Conference Commissioner Chuck Neinas said he does not think the problem is getting out of hand.

"Right at the beginning of the conference season we seem to have more problems," Neinas said. "When the conference season starts everybody is even. It's the idea of the intensity of the conference season."

"Basketball has changed in complexity," Neinas added. "They're playing more aggressively. I don't think it's fair to compare the way it's played with the way it was played 20 years ago."

Hawks, Bullets swap

The Washington Bullets and Atlanta Hawks swapped a pair of three-year veterans Thursday. The Bullets shipped forward Leonard "Truck" Robinson (left) to Atlanta in return for guard Tom Henderson and a draft choice. Robinson was upset he wasn't playing more and asked the Bullets to trade or release him. The Bullets described Henderson as the "best ball handler" they could obtain.

MU curator likes new stadium plan

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — University of Missouri Curator Pleasant Smith of Mexico says he is "very comfortable" with new plans for expanding the football stadium at the south end.

Smith's physical facilities committee toured the stadium Thursday and listened to a presentation of new plans for south end expansion. The full Board of Curators is expected to consider the new proposal at its meeting here today.

"As the plan is now," Smith said, "I think it is a good one." The curators voted in mid-December to expand the stadium at the north end, bringing a deluge of protest from alumni around the state. The curators rejected at that time a more costly south end expansion.

Mel Proctor, an architect with Bob Campbell & Co. of Kansas City, presented the new south end plan to Smith's committee Thursday. The full Board of Curators will review its December decision Friday. Estimates indicate it would cost $975,000 to add 8,700 seats at the south end of the field. It would cost $509,000 to increase seating by 9,600 at the north end. Proctor said the natural bowl at the north end would make expansion there more economical.

However, Proctor told the committee that if the stadium was to be expanded even further, the final costs for expansion at either end would be about the same per seat.

A study of seat location completed by Proctor indicated that more seats would be closer to the playing field if the south end of the stadium was expanded.

Proctor told the committee that if it approved the south end expansion, construction could not be completed for the upcoming season. Additional seating at the north end, however, could be finished in time for the use this fall.

Hall of Fame neglect upsets Enos Slaughter

ROXBORO, N.C. (AP) — Enos Slaughter, former star outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals, contends that a lot of the writers who overlooked him in balloting for the Baseball Hall of Fame never saw him play.

Former Chicago Cubs great Ernie Banks was selected for the Hall of Fame this week, receiving approximately 83 per cent of the votes cast by 383 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Slaughter finished fourth in the balloting, behind Banks, Eddie Mathews and Gil Hodges.

Slaughter, now Duke University baseball coach, played in five World Series with the Cardinals and the New York Yankees. He praised Banks, saying, "He should be in the Hall and so should I. I had a higher batting average than he did, but he hit more home runs and that's all people look at these days."

Slaughter's batting average for 22 major leagues seasons was .300.

There has been published speculation that Slaughter was not popular with writers because he spiked Jackie Robinson when Robinson was the only black in the major leagues.

Slaughter, who retired in 1959, has been on the ballot of the BBWAA 13 times.

BULLETIN

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The committee on inter-collegiate athletics at the University of Missouri-Columbia today recommended a plan to add 8,700 seats at the south end of the football field in Memorial Stadium.

Details of the new expansion plan were presented Thursday to the physical facilities committee of the University of Missouri curators.

Watson trails Green by 1 stroke in Crosby

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Hubert Green has the lead with a spectacular 65. Tom Watson is one pop back. Jack Nicklaus is in the hunt.

But, in the golfing extravaganza that is the $200,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, they had to take a back seat to an unemployed, 18-handicap amateur who — so far at least — hasn't helped his partner a single shot.

"I don't know where my partner was," Arnold Palmer said with a twinkle in his eye, "but he didn't help a bit."

His partner, one Gerald Ford, was airborne at that moment Thursday afternoon, enroute from the inauguration of Jimmy Carter in Washington to the spectacular beauty of the Monterey Peninsula. He was scheduled to play in the second round today — his first full day as an ex-president — as Palmer's amateur partner in the pro-am portion of this unique competition.

And they had their work cut out for them today on the Shore Course at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

"To make the cut," Palmer mused after a long look at the scoreboard, "we're going to have to go about nine under each of the next two days."

The 168 teams of a pro and amateur play one round on each of three courses — the Shore, Cypress Point and Pebble Beach — before the field is cut to the low 30 teams for Sunday's final round at Pebble Beach.

With Ford unavailable for competition Thursday, Palmer's individual total at Cypress Point had to count as the team score, which normally is computed on a better-ball basis, including the amateur's handicap. Palmer shot a shoddy 74. While the 47-year-old Palmer was having his problems in his first start of the season, Green took advantage of the unusually good weather to humble proud Pebble Beach with a seven-under-par effort that was just one shot off the course record. He would have had that but for a three-putt from 15 feet for his only bogey.

The tournament which traditionally offers wind, rain, cold and sometimes sleet and snow, produced hazy skies with mild temperatures and just a hint of a breeze.

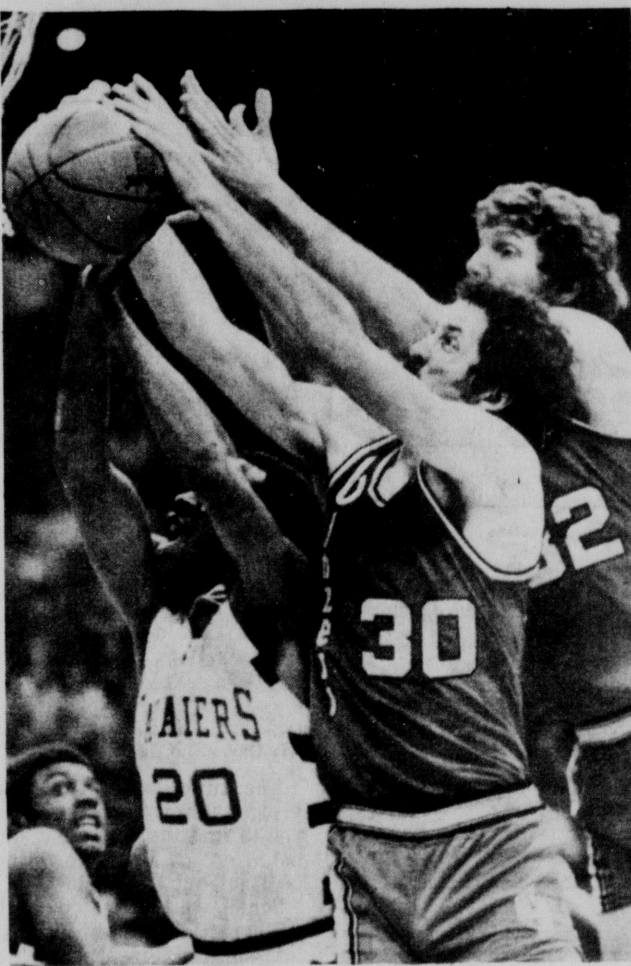

"It's a fun course to play in weather like this," said Watson, a former British Open champion who had a shot at the title last week in the Tucson Open. He holed one bunker shot for an eagle three on the way to a 66, also at Pebble Beach, that left him just one stroke out.

Mexican Victor Regalado shot a four-under-par 67 at the Shore course, which also produced 68s from Gene Littler, Tom Kite, Billy Casper and Don Bies. Bill Rogers has a 68 at Cypress, probably the toughest of the three layouts.

"I've never seen Cypress set up tougher," said the favored Jack Nicklaus, who opened his season with a solid 69 at that course.

Hale Irwin had to play his back nine in 31 to salvage a 71 at Cypress. PGA champ Dave Stockton was one over at the Shore course. British Open title-holder Johnny Miller was two over on the same course.

U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, a winner at Phoenix two weeks ago, had a 74 at Pebble Beach and defending champ Ben Crenshaw had a 75 at Cypress Point.

Grab-happy

A loose ball produced this flurry of arms and hands in the fourth quarter of Thursday's game between Portland and Cleveland. Reaching for the ball, left to right, are Cleveland's Campy Russell and Bob Gross and Bill Walton of Portland. The visiting Trailblazers defeated the Cavaliers 99-91. (UPI)

No.1 Dons lose exhibition game

By DICK JOYCE
AP Sports Writer

Maybe it was the home court advantage.

It apparently helped a California-based group called Athletes in Action because the team upset the University of San Francisco, the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, 104-85 Thursday night at its home court in Anaheim, Calif. AIA's previous 364 games in its 9½ years of existence were on the road.

But these college basketball graduates now playing for the sports arm of the Campus Crusade for Christ recently found a home at the Anaheim Convention Center after all those years of away games.

The game was an exhibition, so the NCAA will not count it against the Dons, who boast a 19-0 record against college opponents.

"Well," said an AIA spokesman, "We didn't have much of a following for the first nine years, and we didn't think we could afford to play any home games."

A crowd of 6,715 saw Tim Hall, Irv Kiffin and Ralph Drollinger lead AIA, which claims it plays the toughest amateur schedule in the nation, to its 24th victory in 30 games this season.

Meantime, fifth-rated Michigan beat 19th-rated Purdue 82-76 and 16th-ranked Arizona downed Utah 102-98 in games involving other Top Twenty teams Thursday night.

Athletes in Action got 20 points from the 6-foot-8 Hall, from Colorado State, and 18 each from the 6-9 Kiffin, from Oklahoma Baptist, and the 7-2 Drollinger from UCLA. Drollinger's game-winning shot from 23 feet sent the Dons to 37.

AIA takes on seventh-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas next week — at home.

Michigan Coach Johnny Orr has found out the hard way that he may be right in claiming he has the best three guards in the nation.

When Rickey Green, the Wolverines' star guard, suffered a back injury with 7:36 remaining against Purdue, Orr called on Dave Baxter. The 6-foot-2 junior from Detroit responded with 10 points in the last 6:13, helping Michigan to a home court Big Ten Conference triumph.

Green twisted his back while scoring on a fast-break layup that put Michigan ahead 69-59 and was listed as a questionable starter against Illinois Saturday.

It was Michigan's 12th victory against one loss and made the Wolverines 5-0 in Big Ten play.

Green was Michigan's leading scorer with 22 points while Phil Hubbard scored 19 points and grabbed 14 rebounds. Baxter finished with 14 points.

Herman Harris scored 35 points, 23 in the first half, as Arizona tripped Utah for its 29th straight home victory. Utah rallied from a 19-point deficit and trailed 99-96 with one minute left. But Harris tossed in three points for the Wildcats, 13-2 over-all.

In another Western Athletic Conference game, Arizona State beat visiting Brigham Young 86-84 in overtime on James Holliman's goal with three seconds remaining. Mark Landsberger topped ASU with 25 points. BYU's Mark Handy bagged 21 points.

Stretch Gregory's short jumper with 10 seconds left gave Wisconsin a 61-60 victory over visiting Northwestern and its first Big Ten conference triumph, snapping a five-game losing streak.

Gregory led the Badgers with 15 points while Billy McKinney topped Northwestern with 29.

Greg Kesler's 24 points led host Michigan State 67-58 over Illinois, which got 20 points from Rich Adams. Spartans Coach Jud Heathcote benched his starting team for about five minutes in the first half, a move he claimed sparked his team to victory.

David Thompson tallied 22 points and Carlton Byrd 21 in Florida State's homecourt 97-74 win over South Florida, raising the Seminoles' record to 9-7. It marked the 200th coaching victory for FSU Coach Hugh Durham.

Robert Scrutens scored 22 points as host Creighton overwhelmed Rockhurst 79-62, boosting its record to 13-2.

Eddie Jordan returned to his hometown of Washington, D.C., and helped Rutgers, 10-4, top George Washington 87-84 with a late steal and layup. Hollis Copeland scored 23 for Rutgers.

Charlie Brent poured in 22 second-half points to power Wichita State, 11-4, over Tulsa 68-48 in a Missouri Valley Conference contest at Wichita.

Roadrunners shoot for first '77 win

The State Fair Community College Roadrunners will try to snap a five-game losing skid when they travel to Lawrence, Kan., tonight to take on Haskell Indian Junior College in a Greater Kansas City Community College Conference game.

The Roadrunners, 3-3 in the conference and 6-12 overall, have yet to win in 1977. Their last victory came Dec. 18 at home against Trenton Junior College.

The Indians, 1-4 in conference play and 10-6 on the year, are leading the conference in team defense, giving up 68.6 points per game. Their leading scorer is Don Murphy, averaging 18.4 points per game.

Nets lose 12th in row at K.C.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Kings handed the New York Nets their 12th consecutive National Basketball Association loss Thursday night in a game that almost wasn't because the visitors barely managed to field eight players.

The high point for the Nets in the 123-92 loss was winning the opening tip.

It was straight downhill from there.

NBA rules dictate a team must dress a minimum of eight players. Thursday night that's all the visitors could produce.

Jan van Breda Kolff was left home with an Achilles strain, John Williamson remained behind with a banged-up finger, Bob Love had been waved Wednesday, and Nate Archibald, who suffered a broken foot Jan. 2, may be out for the season.

As a result, the Nets' mustered a starting lineup with a combined scoring average of 32.2 points.

The hosts toyed with the visitors for a while before putting the game away with a 26-4 spread which began late in the first quarter. With 6:30 remaining in the half, the score was 46-18 and the only thing in doubt was how many of the 5,844 on hand would remain for completion of the services.

Kevin Loughery, the Nets' coach, recalled when Philadelphia's 76ers won 9 and lost 73 in 1972-73.

"We have won 70 per cent of our games for the last three years," he consoled. "But you can't feel sorry for yourself. I'm paid well. It (losing) is relative to the business. There are a lot of people who have more problems than I do."

Kansas City's Richard Washington took game honors with 26 points, followed by Bill Robinson and Ron Boone with 21 each. Robert Hawkins had 25 points for New York and Al Skinner added 21.

In the other NBA games Thursday night, the Portland Trail Blazers beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 99-91 and the Golden State Warriors topped the Phoenix Suns 107-103.

Blazers 99, Cavaliers 91

Maurice Lucas scored 32 points and Bill Walton 25 as Portland increased its Pacific Division lead to two games. Campy Russell, who led Cleveland with 22 points, missed a shot and had one blocked after the Cavaliers moved within 93-89. But a field goal by Walton and four free throws by Lucas clinched it.

Warriors 107 Suns 103

Rick Barry scored six points in the final 45 seconds, giving Golden State the victory and ending the Suns' three-game winning string. Barry, who finished with 31 points, hit a jumper, snapping a 99-99 tie. With 15 seconds left, he sank a field goal and, 11 seconds later, hit on two free throws. Rookie Robert Parish added 18 points for Golden State. Paul Westphal scored 25 points for Phoenix.

Junior high split

Warsaw and Smithton split a junior high boys-girls basketball doubleheader Thursday. Warsaw won the boys game 50-29 behind the scoring of Mark Porter (21) and Gary Martinez (14). Smithton won the girls contest 24-4.

Northwest wins

Northwest defeated LaMonte 36-35 in a boys junior high basketball game Thursday at LaMonte. High scorer for the game was Mark Eichholz of LaMonte with 11 points.

Broyles to turn down GM post with Falcons

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Athletic Director Frank Broyles will reject an offer to become general manager of the National Football League's Atlanta Falcons, the Arkansas Gazette reported today.

Gazette Sports Editor Orville Henry cited no sources in his story, but Henry has long been one of Broyles' closest personal friends and biggest boosters.

The Atlanta Journal said earlier this week that Broyles was the choice of Falcons owner Rankin Smith to be the new general manager. The paper also reported that Broyles would accept the job.

"The suggested salary of $200,000, the long-term contract, a chunk of stock and the affection civic leaders of his hometown have shown for him appeal to Broyles," Henry's story said. "But when it came to making a choice, Broyles has once again decided against leaving Arkansas, the state he adopted as his home 19 years ago."

Broyles stepped down as Arkansas' head football coach at the end of last season.

Saints

no more in WHA

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Fighting Saints folded Thursday after owners failed to sell the World Hockey Association club before a 10 p.m. CST deadline.

But the final hour was considered a mere formality by everyone from the players to the office staff.

Nine Saints players already had been sold, and two others, John Arbour and Gord Gallant, were in Birmingham Thursday night, waiting for the official word so they could sign with the Bulls.

The demise of the Fighting Saints marked the second time in less than a year that a WHA team in Minnesota had folded. A team referred to in St. Paul as the "original" Fighting Saints had gone under last April, only to be resurrected just prior to the start of the current season.

You and your income taxes

Most can compute by using tables

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a five-part series written to help taxpayers prepare their 1976 income tax returns.)

By EDMUND PINTO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Actually computing your taxes this year should be easier for most taxpayers after finding out how much taxable income you have.

That's because the new tax law has set up special tables listing the tax bill for taxable income amounts ranging from $4 to $19,999. And that should cover between 80 per cent and 90 per cent of all taxpayers, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Gone, then, for these taxpayers, is the need to compute taxes using a formula that requires multiplication, addition and subtraction skills. For taxpayers with taxable income of $20,000 and above, the formula, known as the tax rate schedule, still must be used.

To use the table, find your taxable income bracket along the left-hand side and then find your filing status along the top. Your tax is the amount that is shown where the income line, reading across, meets the status line, reading down.

The amount shown at that point should be reported in the appropriate box of the 1040 or 1040A.

There are actually several ways to compute your taxes, but most taxpayers will be using the tax tables, the rate schedule or schedule G, also known as the income averaging method.

Don't discount income averaging because it is a little more complicated to use. It could save you a large amount of money.

Averaging may work if your taxable income is up this year compared to the last four years.

To work out schedule G you will need copies of your returns for the previous four years, which you should have been saving anyway, and copies of the form, which can be obtained from your local IRS office.

Since the rules governing the use of Schedule G, and the formula needed to compute the taxes are somewhat complex, you might want to ask the IRS or someone familiar with this method to help you.

Now that you have determined what your taxes are, the next step is to reduce that amount by $35 for each person claimed as an exemption, or 2 per cent of your taxable income up to $180. This ceiling is $90 for married taxpayers filing separately.

You'll have to make the calculation to decide which method gives you the greatest dollar savings. And remember, the $35 credit does not apply to exemptions taken for being older than 65 or for blindness. It is only applicable to the number of individuals claimed.

Here are examples of how it works.

If you have five exemptions at $35 each, that comes to a credit of $175. But if your taxable income is at least $9,000, then 2 per cent of that comes to $180 and that is the credit you should claim.

If you have four exemptions, the 2 per cent figure will work out better if your taxable income is higher than $7,050. But take the $35-per-person credit if taxable income is less than $7,000.

The only sure way to find out which is best is to multiply your exemptions on line 6d of the 1040 and 1040A by $35 and compare that answer to 2 per cent of adjusted gross income.

This is not the only credit you may be able to use to reduce your taxes.

This year, for instance, if you have qualifying child care expenses, you can subtract up to $400 for one child or $800 for two or more children, dollar-for-dollar from your tax bill after you have subtracted the personal exemption credit.

The child care credit generally is for parents who both work, and to claim it you must file Form 2441.

There also is a new credit for persons over 65 that has replaced last year's retirement income credit. You must file a schedule R and for a couple, both over 65 and filing jointly, it could reduce taxes by as much as $563.

There could be smaller savings for other categories of taxpayers. The amount saved for all depends on adjusted gross income and money received under Social Security and the Railroad Retirement Act.

The reverse side of the form is Schedule RP and is a credit for persons under 65 who are receiving income from a public retirement system. It also can lead to significant savings subtracted right from taxes.

Finally, a third credit that is useful to a large number of Americans is the earned income credit. It's an important one for low-income Americans because it gives them a refund on income taxes even if they did not make enough money to file this year.

Basically it pays 10 per cent of earned income up to $4,000. That's $400 and the maximum credit allowed. As income goes up above $4,000, the credit is reduced until it ends at $8,000. The IRS provides a worksheet to help figure the right amount.

In order to claim the credit, however, you must have paid more than half the cost of keeping a home in the United States, in which you lived and which was the home for the entire year of your child who was under 19 years old or a fulltime student, or a disabled dependent child.

Also, you cannot claim this credit if you use the married filing separately status.

As in every facet of income taxes, from credits to deductions, to the arithmetic calculations, remember one important fact. If you are confused anywhere along the line, have questions about any area of taxes, the IRS can and is required to provide you with assistance either over the telephone or in person if you visit your nearest IRS office.

Pancreas aids food digestion

ing significantly damaged. However, I presume from your letter that your husband does have damage. How much trouble he has, or will have, depends entirely on how much damage there is to the pancreas.

Many people have disease of the pancreas and never drank a drop of alcohol, but alcohol is definitely damaging to the pancreas. Your doctor was 100 per cent correct in saying your husband should not drink a drop. It is a matter of life or death for him and his pancreas will only get worse as long as he continues to drink. The quality of his life, in terms of diarrhea and what he gets out of the food he can't digest will only go downhill from here unless he follows his doctor's instructions to the letter.

Your letter really tells me that your husband has an alcohol problem and that the pancreatic disease is a complication of that problem.

Since you have the same doctor I think you would be wise to talk with the doctor with your husband, or alone if necessary, and try to get his help in getting your husband some assistance locally for his alcohol problem through whatever organizations are available to you there. (NEA)

Ouster action against mayor is put off

BETHANY, Mo. (AP) — A decision on ouster proceedings against Bethany Mayor Neal Bullock has been delayed until Feb. 22 by Harrison County Circuit Court Judge J. Morgan Donelson.

Bullock was accused of nepotism after his son joined the Bethany police force.

The ouster motion was filed last year by Jack C. Bauer, a former Harrison County prosecutor.

Bullock became mayor April 19. He is accused of violating the state's nepotism law by employing his son, Gary Bullock, as a city policeman.

Judge Donelson was asked to find that Bullock forfeited his job as mayor when he cast the deciding vote when the city council agreed to award Gary Bullock $2,300 in back pay during a four-month period when the son was suspended.

Dear Reader — The pancreas is an important organ in our ability to digest food. It is located just below the stomach and attached to the first part of the small intestine. It is from four to six inches long. The gland in animals is often used for sweetbreads.

There are two parts of the gland, the tissues that form pancreatic juice (we form from one to three quarts a day) and the small islets of Langerhans seeded throughout the pancreas to form insulin.

The pancreatic juice drains into the small intestine through a tube that is joined to the common bile duct. The bile and pancreatic juice mix together with the partially digested food from the stomach.

The pancreatic juice contains the enzymes that accomplish most of the breakdown of starch from various carbohydrate foods. It also contains the enzymes that break down the proteins into amino acids so they can be absorbed through the intestine. And it contains the enzymes that break down fat. So, most of the food we eat must be acted upon by enzymes from the pancreas before it can even be absorbed to do us any good.

Failure to break down food, particularly the fat, leads to diarrhea and large foul-smelling stools. Part of your husband's problem here may be from his pancreas.

The pancreas may have a few small or even larger calcifications in it without be-

History already kind to Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald R. Ford left town saying that history will treat his presidency kindly. It already is.

In an extraordinary moment, President Carter began his new administration with a tribute to his vanquished Republican rival:

"For myself and for our nation, I want to thank my predecessor for all that he has done to heal our land."

Applause, then cheers, for the loser, who leaves an uncommon legacy.

Denied in his quest to win the presidency for himself, Ford said in his last days that his greatest satisfaction was the restoration of trust and confidence in the White House he held by appointment.

Ford the President has been eulogized as the man who restored decency to the White House, but it was more than that.

That almost surely would have happened had another man succeeded Richard M. Nixon, who was not, after all, a hard act to follow.

A mere absence of scandal and wrongdoing was not enough to regain the trust shattered by two years of Watergate.

To the task of restoration, Ford brought a special gift, for he was an ordinary man, who never pretended otherwise. A better politician would have made a worse president for his time.

Here was a man who bumped his head sometimes, and tripped, and gave dull speeches, and couldn't pronounce the name of Sen. S. I. Hayakawa even when campaigning for him.

But he said he'd do his best. What the job demanded, he tried.

With Ford, what you saw was what you got, and that inspired trust. Even those who challenged his programs and questioned his competence could not find grounds to assail his motives.

His workaday style in the tasks of the presidency was never more evident than in the 2½ months that followed his narrow defeat by Carter, as Ford sought to smooth the transition of power to his Democratic successor.

It was part of the job. Yet never had an incumbent of one party done so much to assist the victorious candidate of the other. Carter said the cooperation was unprecedented.

While Franklin D. Roosevelt awaited inauguration, he shunned the defeated Herbert Hoover. Harry S. Truman wouldn't ride to the Capitol with President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower. When his turn came, Eisenhower privately described the incoming John F. Kennedy as "that boy."

Lyndon B. Johnson was proper but no more than that as Nixon prepared for office.

This transition was different, and it was Ford's doing.

"I wanted the new President to get off to an easier start than I had," Ford said.

TIRED...

OF PUSHING YOUR CAR OR "JUMPING" THE BATTERY THESE COLD DAYS?

TIME FOR A CHANGE!

Now you can have the RESERVE POWER that is necessary to start in cold weather.

with the
SORENSEN
ELECTRONIC IGNITION SYSTEM

Starts cold or wet even with weak battery.

Plus...

- Eliminates point & condenser tune-ups.
- Is backed by more than a half million test miles.
- Circuitry includes defense circuits to protect transistors against incorrect installation and groundin.
- Protects itself against the electrical havoc created when battery connections are reversed.
- Helps obtain better gas mileage.
- Normally pays for itself in 10,000 miles.

Will convert ALL conventional ignition systems.
